Santiago de Chile | Survival Guide

This small guide will help you move through the city with ease and confidence.
Remember to adjust your watch to the local Time Zone: GMT -3:00.

1. Phone Calls

The country code for Chile is 56, the city code for Santiago is 2. The telephone numbers are usually 8 digits, 8 for cell phones.

For long distance calls (national) you need to choose the region code. For example, for a call from everywhere in Chile to Viña del Mar you should dial: 56 (country) + 32 (code for Viña) + 2 (a two) + number.

If you want to call abroad, you will need a carrier. For example: 123 (carrier) + 0 (international call) + country code + city code + number.

- From cell phones to fixed line, a 0 plus the city code must be added. In this case, you have to use "02" before the number for Santiago.
- From fixed lines to cell phones, add 9 and then the number (i.e.: 9-12345678).
- From cell phone to cell phone you just have to dial the cell phone number (i.e.: 12345678).

2. City-Airport-City

2.1 Taxi

Expensive, safe and fast. They are located on the first floor of the International Central Hall. Reference cost: US$ 30 – US$ 36 from airport to Las Condes area.

2.2 Transfer (shuttles)

The Transfers Stands are located on the first floor of the Airport (some by the luggage claim) and they are cheaper than the taxis, quite comfortable, but take longer to reach destiny as the trips are shared. Reference cost: US$ 15.

2.3 Buses

“Tur Bus” and “Centropuerto” provide a bus service from the Airport to downtown. It is the cheapest choice, but we do not recommend it unless you travel during light day; in this case, you have to know very well where your destination is located. It will drop you at the “Los Héroes” or “Pajaritos” Metro stations. Reference cost: US$ 4 for a one-way trip, US$ 6 for a round-trip.

Make sure that you have enough cash! It is always useful to have some Chilean Pesos (CLP$) in cash, so it could be a good idea to exchange some money in the airport. However, the money exchange shops in the airport present inconvenient exchange rates, so probably you would like to exchange the bulk of your money somewhere else (see below).

3. Money

Normally, no store or business will accept foreign currency.

You can find the best exchange rates at the downtown heart, near “Paseo Ahumada” with “Agustinas” corner. There are several money exchange shops in Agustinas. This is near the “Universidad de Chile” Metro station. Never exchange money at the street.

ATMs (Automated Teller Machines) are a convenient way to obtain cash in Chile. ATMs are accessible 24 hours at any bank. Many pharmacies, supermarkets and gas stations also have ATMs. They are recognizable by the Redbanc sign. ATMs accept Cirrus, Mastercard and Visa.

If you have a foreign account, you can only withdraw money from ATMs. After entering your pin in any ATM machine, choose "foreign accounts" in the bottom left hand corner of the screen.

During May - June 2015:

- US Dollar exchange rate range has been CLP$ 610–635 for US$ 1
- Euro exchange rate range has been CLP$ 670–710 for 1 €

4. Getting Around

Bip! Card

We recommend to visit the public transport system - Transantiago - website in order to plan beforehand (www.transantiago.cl). The Transantiago system integrates buses and subway. It is necessary to buy the rechargeable Bip! Card (ask for "Tarjeta Beep").

The cost of the card is CLP$ 1500 and the minimum charge is CLP$ 1000. It is highly recommended to charge more than that (about CLP$ 5,000 should be OK), so you do not have to worry much about it when you go around.

You can acquire and recharge it at any Metro station, at Servipag Stores (www.servipag.com) and at Punto Bip! (these stores not only sell its own services and products, but also recharges Bip! Cards).

Metro (Subway):

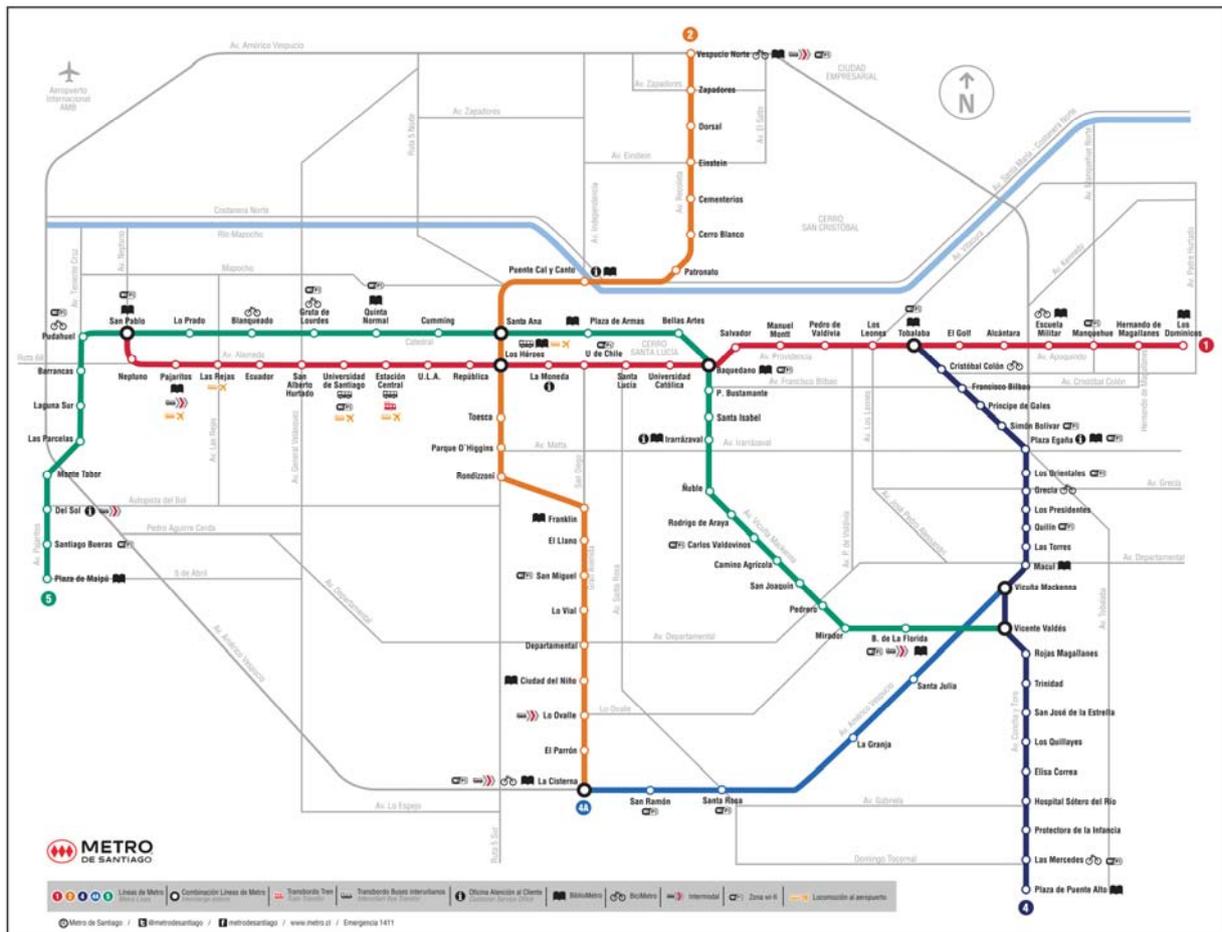

Santiago's Metro (www.metro.cl) is the most efficient and fast way to go around the city. It is clean, cheap, frequent and safe, but overcrowded at peak hours.

The Metro system has 5 lines. For destinations along these lines, it's quicker than buses. The Line 1 (the red one) is the vertebral column of the Metro system and it runs under Santiago's main avenue.

The Metro operates from 5:30 to 23:30 hrs Mondays to Fridays, Saturdays 6:30 to 23:30 hrs and Sundays and holidays from 8:00 to 23:00 hrs. This schedule varies from one line to another so, if you plan to travel after 22:00 hrs, check the schedule of the Metro lines you will use at: <http://www.metro.cl/guia-viajero/horarios> (in Spanish).

Metro station entrances are distinguished by three red diamonds.

The Metro has a different cost depending on the time of your travel. From 06:00 - 06:30 and 20:45 - 23:00, it costs CLP$ 610 per ride.

From 06:30 - 07:00, 09:00 – 18:00, and 20:00 - 20:45, it costs CLP$ 660 per ride.

Between 07:00 - 09:00 and 18:00 - 20:00 is the rush hour, so the ride costs CLP$ 720. These amounts are discounted from your Bip! Card when you enter the platform.

Switching between lines has zero cost, and changing from Metro to bus, bus to bus or bus to Metro has usually zero cost too (exception: if you paid $ 610 on Metro, the bus will charge you an additional $ 30). For the cost of one ride, you can take up to 4 different transportation stages in bus and metro, in a 2 hours lapse.

Urban Buses

The cost of any trip is CLP$ 640 per ride, which is discounted from your Bip! Card when you enter the bus. You can only enter the buses through the front door, and you must bring your Bip! Card close to you. When the yellow machine – located in the entrance of the bus– recognizes you have paid, it sounds with a “beep” and the green light shines. If the red one shines and you hear a triple “beep” then something has gone wrong: try again until it turns green; if it is still not working, maybe you have exhausted all your money in your Bip! Card.

A useful application of the Bip! Card is that it allows you to do one emergency trip in the case that you run out of money and have nowhere to charge your Bip! Card. The fare of this emergency trip will be discounted the next time you recharge your Bip! Card. This benefit is activated from the second time you charge your Bip! Card, and only works from 21:00 to 11:00 hrs of the next day from Mondays to Saturdays, and from 14:00 hrs to 11:00 hrs of the next day in Sundays and holidays.

Taxis

Taxis are always available at Santiago. Taxis are clearly identifiable by their black paint, yellow roof and orange plate. You do not need to negotiate a price. Pay what the taximeter says at the end of the trip and in the case that the driver does not turn on the meter, when your trip starts, you should ask him to do so. We suggest you to ask for an approximation of the trip cost to the desired destiny. Late night fares are normally double than during the day. It is not customary to tip taxi drivers in Chile.

5. Santiago, the city

Santiago is Chile's capital and one of Latin America's largest cities. The city sits in a basin, bordered by the Andes Mountains to the east, and the Chilean Coastal mountains on the west. It's a sum of its diverse parts: the colonial structures of central Santiago and Plaza de Armas, the pubs, funky cafes and dance clubs of Bellavista, the Forestal park along Mapocho riverside road; the government office, Palacio de La Moneda, the Mercado Central, a seafood market, and the soulless fenced suburban condos. On a clear day, after the rain has washed out the thick smog layer, from atop Cerro San Cristobal, Santiago's highest hill, you can see the whole city and the not so distant Andes look absolutely astonishing.

Two main Tourist Information offices are located in downtown: At Merced street 860, and at Santa Lucia hill; a small in-city hill you should definitely visit.

At the hotel, they'll probably be able to give you all the information you need for general tourist activities in Chile. However, it's worth mentioning that Santiago is about an hour away from good ski centers and about 1.5 hours from the sea and the city of Valparaíso (its centre is World's Heritage). Excursions to the mountains, vineyards, national reserves and small, nice towns are 1.0-2.5 hours away. But Chile's most important tourist attractions are natural landscapes (San Pedro de Atacama, Torres del Paine), which unfortunately are further away, via local flights or long bus trips.

8. Other Useful Information:

- Warning: Electric power in Chile is 220V. If you plug an electronic device designed for 110V, you will burn it. Check your electric devices before plugging them in, most computer transformers can receive inputs from 100 – 240 V, so there should be no problem in plugging them in. In the case that the plugs of your electric devices do not fit the plug entrance, you can buy an adaptor in most hardware stores. At www.aduana.cl (customs) you can have detailed information on restrictions applicable to goods carried by tourists.
- Air quality in Santiago is bad; one of the worst in the world. If you have asthma or any other condition related to the respiratory system, you might experience some inconveniences. Just keep your medicines close, and don't get paranoid; the air won't kill you.
- It's normally safe to walk after dark in Santiago. Take the usual precautions you would take in a 6 million people city.
- Commercial offices close for a long lunch hour, which can vary from business to business.
- Generally, hours are Monday through Friday from 10am to 7pm, closing for lunch between 1 and 1:30pm and reopening between 2:30 and 3pm. Most stores are open from 10am to 2pm on Saturday and closed on Sunday. This doesn't apply for stores in Malls.
